

Chapter IV:

Conclusion

Language barrier was always a problem when you are doing a research. No matter how much fluent you are in a language, reading a source material in your mother tongue provide a more understanding result. That's why a translation book always a necessity when you doing a research. It provide you with a more definitive answer.

While doing the translation project, the author face few difficulties, translating word for word is easy, but translating a phrase need a certain art. Doing this project has provide the author with a more understanding toward the English language. Finishing this project gave the author a certain satisfaction and a new hope.

The author hope this book will be accessible to a wider students either they are an English major or a History major. Hopely this project can provide a more concrete and accurate translation so it could help the indonesia reader to learn from this book.